So far as we have heard, there has not been a dissenting voice expressed against Judge Turney's decisin in holding Joe Redmon without bail. Of course, it is expected that his relatives and immediate friends will dissent, but it has not come within the scope of our hear-ing to hear but one dissenting voice of the family. The people felt aggrieved and outraged at a decision of a recent court, and laid the blame at Magistrate Stone's feet, for allowing ball of a criminal in a far more aggravated case. There's this difference, to take the mildest common sense view of the two murderers: Stivers, like a wily huntsman, sought his game, lured it to him in soft and decep tive words and shot it down without a word of warning. Not so with Redmon. Although he had the venom and intent in his heart, the venom and intent in his heart, he gave his victim a few words of warning of the wrath to come, and it was left with him to choose be-twen death and fleeing from the official trust in his charge coupled with ordinary manliness. With a spirit of forbestrance and a hope to overcome the fast brewing welcon which was scope in well this cyclone which was soon to waft his soul into eternity, Secrest stood at his post of duty, and in the act of closing the door for the third time against an avowed enemy, he met a violent death. Half a moment before the the door was thrown open by by Joe Redmon, his friend open by by Joe Redmon, his friend admonished another with the words 'look out! h—l will be to pay in a minute." Thus it was shown clearly that it was not a case of self-defense. If so, why was the hotel office invaded the third time-when the invasion from the first was forbidden? If invasion is self-defense, pray what is attack?

If it is self-defense for Stivers to cut a bar of lead into slugs, load is cut a bar of lead into slugs, load a shot gun and several shells besides a relvolver, and make a negro drive in post-haste three miles and shoot down a man with whom he had had no difficulty, then what is what? Are we, the peers of any availed race a set of fools, or it he word "attack" a misnomer? Or is that word not a misnomer and the langer the wise men (when a dollar is in sight) and the beliance of humanity are fools! My friends, be not deceived or build dozed any loager? You well know whither things are drifting, and it is within your pewer to call a halt. The question is, will you do it?

Your cousin Jim Stone has eaused a friend to write a let ter saying that he did have Henry Turney to write that letter, but it was written through mere friendship. If that be true, then why ship. If that be true, then why the language to Turney, "Now I'll get to sit in the Stivers case, and I'll give the d—d sooundrel what he deserves." This indeed appears very friendly to the man who was engineering his nephew's case Good Lord, deliver us from such in dications of friendship!
